BIOGRAPHY

Amy is an HCPC Registered Occupational Therapist and experienced case manager. She has 22 years of professional practice; Amy brings a wealth of clinical expertise across various settings within both the NHS and private sector. Throughout her career, she has worked within multidisciplinary teams in acute and community environments, honing her skills in neurology, acquired brain injury, long-term conditions, stroke rehabilitation, orthopaedics, elderly care, and end-of-life care. Amy has a comprehensive understanding of the factors affecting individuals with disabilities and their families, enabling her to provide thorough assessments and support as a case manager.

As a certified manual handling key trainer, Amy is proficient in conducting detailed assessments and delivering extensive training to staff teams. Her leadership experience includes managing teams and projects effectively. Known for her organisational skills, motivation, and resourcefulness, Amy excels in problem-solving, approaching challenges with determination and creativity to meet the needs of her clients and their families.

Amy is adept at building and maintaining strong working relationships with clients, families, carers, professionals, and services. Her collaborative approach ensures a comprehensive and coordinated support network for her clients
