BIOGRAPHY

Sam is an HCPC Registered Physiotherapist and highly experienced professional with a background in physiotherapy and case management. Throughout his career, he has gained experience in various fields including acquired brain injury, amputees, complex orthopaedic rehabilitation and spinal injuries, as well as those with complex needs arising from psychological trauma and sporting injuries. His diverse background has provided him with a broad understanding of different areas of practice.

Sam's focus within rehabilitation includes complex orthopaedic and spinal injuries and has experience working in MDTs. His passion for this field is evident from his ten years tenure working in musculoskeletal outpatient physiotherapy units within in the NHS, private organisations and within the community, where he gained extensive experience in this area.

Sam has a calm nature and cares passionately about understanding people, this comes across in his excellent communication which provides an individualised approach to support each client to reach their potential whatever the circumstances. His ability to build rapport is evident in his successful engagement with clients who have mental health difficulties, chronic pain and those experiencing sensory loss. Sam also possesses a goal-oriented approach, ensuring that his recommendations are well-justified and aimed at achieving specific outcomes.

Sam completed his qualification as a physiotherapist in 2013. He has furthered his expertise by becoming part of the Chartered Society of Physiotherapy. He has also worked for Elite Professional Basketball teams and maintains a keen interest in rehabilitation following sports injuries.
